Interviewer: Hello, most of us have experienced the frustration of sitting in a traffic jam on our way to work or the horrible feeling when you realize you are lost driving around a city you don't know. Well, today's guest is here to talk about how to be prepared for your business trips. Welcome to the show James, would you like to introduce yourself to our listeners?

James: Hello, well my name is James McCann and I work as a field sales representative for a large pharmaceutical company. My job involves traveling all over the south west to meet with potential clients.
